PART I—HISTORY

FAMILY SKETCH

Heman Rowlee was born November 17, 1746. Of his life previous to his marriage, in 1770, little is known. In all probability he grew up in the hills east of the Hudson River, and when old enough was apprenticed to learn the stone mason's trade, by which he afterwards earned his living. In 1769 he bought a farm in southern Orange County, a region already quite densely populated by Dutch, Scotch and Irish emigrants, and by pioneers from Long Island and Connecticut. January 9, 1770, he married Lydia Seely. Her parents' names are unknown, but she had a sister Charlotte, who married Isaac Seaman. These sisters were no doubt descendants of Robert Seely, the valiant soldier who is said to have come to America with Governor Winthrop's fleet.*

Heman Rowlee first appears in Revolutionary records as lieutenant in the Florida-Warwick Company of the Fourth Orange County Regiment of Militia under Colonel John Hathorn. The only specimen of his handwriting known is where he signed a receipt for pay on Colonel Hathorn's voucher, now filed in the Controller's office at Albany. Whether he was made an officer on account of previous military training or some other cause does not appear. He did not sign the Revolutionary pledge.

Orange County was part of the frontier during the Revolutionary War and was subjected to murderous raids from time to time. The most notable of these was led by Brandt and ended in the battle of Minisink, which was little less than a massacre of the Orange County provincials by the Indians and Tories.† The company to which Heman Rowlee belonged was called upon to support their comrades, but arrived after the fight was over. While the seat of war was in the Hudson valley, the militia was called upon to do desultory but very active work. The service was, however, much more like guerilla warfare than regular army service. The stories told by later generations of Indian and Redcoat outrages were no doubt traditions from these Revolutionary experiences.

Heman Rowlee protected his home and family. Ten years after the Revolutionary War closed he had prospered so that he determined to build a new home. Heretofore he had lived in a log house. He now had ten children, five boys and five girls, the older ones old enough to render efficient aid in the construction of the new house. Stone in that country was plenty, and he naturally concluded to build it of that material. The earth was excavated to bed-rock and the four walls started upon it. There were to be two rooms in the cellar, two rooms on the first floor, and an ample attic above. The walls were eighteen inches thick, and in the gable ends were carried up to the ridge pole. The windows were narrow and were provided with solid board shutters like the houses of Philadelphia. The chimney was a massive affair built entirely of stone. Leading into it were two fireplaces, one in each room on the first floor. The hearth for these was supported on an immense corbel built out in the cellar. The front or east side was of dressed stone in regular blocks, the ends and back of irregular rubble. The rafters were tamarack poles flattened on one side, and the beams and joist were all hewn. The plates were held in place on the side walls by heavy wrought iron straps bent into shape so as to hook inside the wall and outside the plate. The house stands in good condition to-day. It is located a mile east of Edenville, in the town of Warwick. It was bequeathed to Heman Rowlee, Jr., by his father, and was owned and occupied by him until his death in 1866. It is now owned by G. H. Davenport. Since the death of Heman Rowlee, Jr., a larger part has been added to the house. The front was given a thick coat of plaster which has peeled off in places. It is now 116 years old. The door and window frames, the sash and blinds are crumbling with age, but the walls, beams and rafters are as sound as when built.

The ten children brought up under this roof soon separated to make homes for themselves.

The eldest daughter, Sarah, married, and after bearing one child, Joel Curtis, died at the early age of thirty years. Joel Curtis is mentioned in his grandfather's will. He finally removed to Brooklyn.

The second child, Lois, had the deformity known as harelip, and lived with her father until his death in 1818, when she removed with her younger sister, Lydia S., to Rowlee Hill, one mile west of Peruville, Tompkins County, N. Y. Their brother, Nathan, had previously settled in this place. Lois was a weaver and made cloth, from which her sister, a seamstress, made clothing. Both were highly respected and very religious women.

Charles, the eldest son, came to an untimely death by drowning. He had been married two years and left a young wife and infant daughter, Charlotte. The circumstances of his death are not known, but the Christmas season of 1799 must have been a sad one indeed for the family. Nothing is known of his widow's life after his death. The daughter Charlotte is mentioned in her grandfather's will. She married Gabriel Curtis and died when thirty years old, leaving two daughters, Lois Kosia and Elizabeth. Her husband married again, and both daughters married and settled in the West, the elder at Summerfield, O., the younger at Corunna, Mich.

The fifth child and second son, Matthew, married and remained in the vicinity of the old home. He was a blacksmith.

Elijah married and lived for several years in Orange County, but about the time of his father's death migrated with his family to the Chemung Valley in Southern New York. He was a farmer.

Nathan and Elijah seem to have had business interests together in Orange County. They sold out and both migrated about the same time. Nathan went to Rowlee Hill, near Peruville, Tompkins County, N. Y., where he lived until about 1827. He then sold out to his two sisters, Lois and Lydia S., and removed to Fulton, Oswego County, where he got out and dressed hearthstones from a quarry just below the falls. His children, with the exception of his son, Charles S., settled in this locality. Nathan Rowlee and his wife visited their sisters in Tompkins County about 1833. William Niver, of Cortland, now over 80 years old, well remembers that they with Lydia S. and Lois visited his father, and particularly their acrid discussion of masonry, and Morgan. Niver's father was a mason and the Rowlees anti-mason. His grandmother was Charlotte (Seely) Seaman.

Mary, or Polly, married John Blauvelt, a dealer in horses. They emigrated to the Susquehanna valley in Northern Pennsylvania about 1820, and most of their children settled there. Their youngest son, John McDowell Blauvelt, is the only one of his generation living. From him a fund of information has been secured for these records.

Heman, Jr., the youngest son, remained upon the old homestead in Orange County until his death. He was a very religious man, and by his will endowed the Presbyterian church at Amity, of which he had been an elder for forty years.

Mention has already been made of Lydia S. She also was deeply interested in religion and made liberal provision in her will for the Peruville Presbyterian church, which she had helped build up.

The youngest child, Elizabeth, married Daniel Coe, and lived in Orange County until his death. She outlived all her brothers and sisters and died in 1879 at Groton, N. Y., at the home of her daughter.

Thus were the children of Lieutenant Heman Rowlee dispersed. Their descendants are now in all parts of the United States, and very few of them know of the comfortable home and happy family of their ancestor of one hundred years ago.

REMINISCENCE OF HEMAN ROWLEE, JR.

BY HIS FOSTER DAUGHTER, MRS. SIDNEY BULL.

CAMERON, MO., Oct. 2, 1905.

As to a biographical sketch of Uncle Heman, I can give you items which I hope will interest you. He was a devoted Christian, spent much time in prayer. Told me of one time when as a young man he was alone in the barn praying audibly and his sister came to the door and said "Boo", he said "sister, if you had been quiet you might have heard something for your good." He often took our oldest boy (whom he took in his arms when a little baby and called him by his own name), into the old stone parlor and I would hear him in prayer. He loved his church (Amity Presbyterian), was generous in its support and all its benevolent work. He bequeathed to it a thousand dollars, the interest to perpetuate the salary of the pastor. He maintained the family altar. The big family Bible was read morning and evening.

I coveted that old Bible, but felt it belonged to the Rowlee family. It was a large, old book well preserved. Auntie read it through seven times while uncle was at prayer meeting, knitting meantime, the book resting on a stand before her. She was not able for a number of years to attend meeting with him. His liberality gave the impression that he was very wealthy. I think his estate amounted to thirty-two thousand dollars, which he tried to distribute equally between his and auntie's relatives, after bequests of a thousand dollars to several benevolent societies. He gave our Heman a thousand for his education. He also gave me what has helped us to accumulate a comfortable living.

Uncle told me of the building of the stone house, now standing, when he was five years old, and of helping the same year to set out the black cherry trees which lined the road from the barn to the Shorter place, and of the homestead being left to him in consideration of his paying certain legacies to the other heirs. He borrowed money to pay them and the next year had to borrow again to pay the interest. This he determined should not occur again, and he and auntie worked hard. He husked his corn and did his threshing nights. Auntie plied the loom, made butter and knit stockings to sell. The last year of her life she knit forty-six pairs of woollen socks.

A funny little story was told by Mrs. Sam Goble, of Edenville, illustrating the hard times the people passed through in those early days. Mrs. Goble's father's farm joined the Rowlee farm toward Edenville. Heman, Sr., had but one pair of pants and his wife washed them after he retired and hung them in front of the fire-place to dry; in the night they fell over and burned up, and Mrs. Goble's mother went over the next day and helped make a new pair while he lay in bed.

I have very pleasant recollections of the families of John Coe, John Rowlee, Jane Ball, and Lydia Woodruff. Was also acquainted with Aunt Betsey Coe. Do not remember whose children these were except John Coe.

THE PRAYERS OF LYDIA S. ROWLEE

The prayers were written in a quarto pamphlet in her own handwriting. The spelling is preserved in this copy. They are good illustrations of the religious fervor prevailing among the church people of that time. Few, however, of the many uttering such prayers wrote them down.

The original copy is in the possession of William Underwood, of Groton, N. Y.

MAY 10th, 1830.

Various has been the duties of thy hand maid this day and, oh God, thou knowest how she has performed them. I have been permitted to be with thy children at thy table to commemorate thy dying love but oh what an unworthy guest I have been ; unworthy of a seat amongst thy children yet invited by the master of the feast who said in his word eat, oh friend, drink, oh beloved, and I think that the fruits of Christ's house was sweet to my taste and now, oh God, I entreat thee to give thy handmaid grace to perform all the duties devolving upon her in the fear and with an eye single to thy Glory. Thou knowest, oh searcher of hearts, the duty of this afternoon.

After having some one to go before us for this three years now we are left to go alone except thou go with us and enable us to roll ourselves over afresh on the for strength and wilt thou guide us now in the day of adversity and forgive what thou hast seen amiss in the days of our prosperity and let us not be left without the guidance of thy holy Spirit in so important an undertaking as to instruct the rising generation out of thy word, oh God, accept of us and all that we have and are for Jesus sake.

JUNE 6th, 1830.

News has reached us that our dear Brother Waveley is dead. This is thy way, oh God, thou seeist not as Man seeith. How have I a poor shortsighted Mortal looked at this dear servant of the's when preparing for the minestry and thought of his filling a place as an ambassador of Christ, but, oh God, thou hadst but a short work for him to perform here. How didst thou call for him and at an unexpected time when he was going to fulfil an appointment. It was then that thou didst send for him and not a single soul to administer to his relief. It was then that thou didst send thy angle to call this dear Brother home to thy self. To the he lived while here and thou hadst a perfect wright to do what thou wilt with thine own. Oh let not thy handmaid murmur while she suffereth her pen to write and to retrace thy dealings with this people. Thou didst in days past send thy dear servant to his place to labour in this vinyard; Thou wast acquainted with all his goings; thou didst hear him plead for sinners here by day and by night; thou wast witness to his stronge cries and tears and hadst thou not a bottle for his tears and an ear to hear his cries and now as thou hast taken him to thy self let the people in this place when they hear the mournful tidings remember the warnings and the reproof of thy servant. Oh let thy spirit accompany the newes to the concienceses of all who hear it both saint and sinner. Oh may we who saw his life and how near he lived to the Saviour be enabled to tread in his steps as far as he trod in the steps of the blessed Jesus. Oh how faithful was he to give reproof to those whome he esteemed as the Children of God. What intreaties to live above the world and to have our conversasion in Heaven and not on the things of time, and, on the other hand, how faithful to warn sinners of their approaching danger and to exort them to flee from the wrath to come and to lay hold on the hope set before them in the Gosple. Oh God let not the news of the death of this thy servant pass unnotised by this people and do thou support his dear widowed mother to say the Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away and blessed be the name of the Lord. She did give to the her son, and thou wast pleased to hear her cries when she plead for the salvation of his soul and now thou hast taken him to thy self I ask the again to support her in this day of trial.

And, oh God, I would ask that thou wouldst prepare thy handmaid for as sudden an exit from time to Eternity and when thou shalt send the messenger death to open the door for me into Eternity may I be ready having on the wedding garment that I may shine in the righteousness of my blessed Redeemer in the Kingdom of heaven and where sin shall never more disturb my pease.

JULY 13th, 1830.

Various are thy dealings with thy handmaid, oh Lord. This day am I deprived of my greatest privilege that is of attending to the Sabbath school, but Lord thou knowest why it is so perhaps thou hast in view one at this time who is more capable and better qualified to fill her place for thou art acquainted with her inability and shouldst thou never more permit her to attend to this institution it would be just in thee for how little have I honoured the when thou didst give me health to attend, how little was my heart affected with the salvation of the dear little ones committed to my care.

SEPT. 5th, 1830.

How swift do the arrows of Death fly and how little do the Children of men take warning. Oh that I may take warning by the dispensasion of thy providence that has lately visited us. Thou didst send unto us one of thy most faithful Servants, and thou didst continue his life with us for a season but ere the time of his ingagement has expired thou didst step in and take him to thy self at a time when we were not looking for it. It was then that thou didst send the messenger Death and take thy dear servant to thy self and as thou hast spoken once yea twice may we percieve it and so lay it to heart as to return unto thee. This is the second time that thou hast snatched from us a beloved pastor in an instant and left this little Church to mourn the loss, but let us not forgit thee but be enabled to kiss the rod and he that hath apointed it and return unto thee with all our hearts and as thou hast smitten wilt thou not heal and oh remember us and supply the place of him whom thou hast taken from us with one whose labours thou wilt delight to make instrumental in thy hand of bringing many from darkness to thy great and marvelous light and oh that this little Church may yet arise and put on her butiful garments and rise above infidelity and sing the Lord is our Righteousness and our strength we will praise him with our whole heart even so Lord Jesus enable us to do. Amen.

Oct. 3d, 1830.

As I have this day been reading the confession and repentance of those who have backslidden from thee I would transcribe and make them mine for have I not gone estray from the and my heart become cold and lukewarm in thy service and have reason to cry out in the words of the Psalmis search me, oh God, and try my ways and see if there be any evil way in me and lead me in the way everlasting, for Lord shouldest thou mark one of a thousand of my sins I could have no hope for they would be sufficient to condemn me and sink me down to eternal ruin and to cast me from thy presence forever and I should have to own the sentence just but I have reason to thank the that there is hope for such miserable creatures as we are. Though thou slay me yet will I trust in the and what reason have I to put my trust in the and to lay hold of thy Almighty arm for support. When I remember all the way the Lord God hath led me and when I have been about to work my own ruin thou hast so ordered events as to keep thy handmaid from presumptious sins and to show her the vanity of her mind and in some measure to praise the that thou art ever mindful of thy creatures for good and oh I above all of thy creaturs have reason to bless thee for thy peculiar favour manifested to me. Amen.

Oct. 23, 1830.

How can I find words to express my thanks to thee, oh Lord, for thy loving kindness and tender mercy manifested to us as a Church and a people for it is of thy mercy that thou hast remembered us, for hadst thou scattered us and had there been no Church here and our candlestick been wholly removed what could thy handmaid have said but acknowledge that it was just in thee, but this has not been the way that thou has taken with us, but when we have looked for judgments thou hast granted to us mercies, when weak and feeble as a church thou didst put compassion into the heart of one of thy faithful servants to come and labour with us and as thou hast saw fit to send for him and take him to thyself, thou hast been gracious still and hast priveleged us with another of thy servants to stand in the gap and to cry spare thy people, oh Lord, and give not thy heritage to reproach. And now, oh Lord, as giving doth not impoverish the nor withholding enrich the, let thy blessing here be manifested in the salvation of souls and let this little church no longer be little as it respects numbers but let those who compose it ever feel their own littleness and live putting their whole trust and dependance on an Almighty and cry unto thee day and night untill thy name shall be praised by this people and thy name hallooed and thy sabbaths regarded and thy commandments kept by all from the Least to the greatest. Amen.

DEC. 26, 1830.

How easily are our hopes blasted and how short are our comforts and enjoyments here in this vale of tears for truly it is a vale of tears to me for at one time I am made to rejoice in view of what God has done, at another to mourn in what he has done, for I do realize that he has a right to do what he pleaseth and I do often say thy will be done on earth as it is in heavin, yet how prone to murmur at the hand that has strewed my way with mercies innumerable and blessings with out number and oh that thou woulds teach me to number my days that I may apply my heart to true wisdom and that I may not place my affections on eny thing below the sun but that I may be prepared for every event that availeth me with the composure that the blessed Jesus gave his back to the smiters but, alas, my wicked heart is as inconstant as the wind and my heart is apt to be drawn after other lovers and how can a god of spotles purity look on such a vile mortal who has nothing but a heart polluted with sin to recommend her to his face and favour.

Oh thou Father of all flesh how soon are our hopes as a Church blasted as it respects outward circumstances, at one time made to rejoice in gosple priveleges, at another to mourn our destitute situation. Thy hand dealings to us as a church is mysterious, but, oh God, thou canst see all things from the beginning and had it been most for thy glory thou couldst longe before this time have caused thy spirit to decend on this place and raised up a people here to honour the in walking in the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless and to erect a house to worship the in and thy gospel might statedly been preached to this people but this is not the case with us for we are now without the means that is calculated to bring Sinners to repentance and have not we as a people reason to lift up our cries to thee that thou wouldst search us and try us and show us the evil that hinders thy blessing from this people and if it be in the midst of thy people may it be found out and if it be in the people at large let it be discovered, oh Lord, and let oh let thy spiritual Jerusalem here flourish oh let her arise in thy strength and put on her butiful garments and prepare the wey in this place for the preaching of thy word. Oh send some one to this place that may prove like a Nehemiah in reparing the waste places of Zion and who may comfort thy people and stand in the gap that the enymy may not enter.

The Lords day has again returned but no gosple priveleges for thy handmaid but to sit in silence and there learn thy will and may I not venture to ask the, oh thou most high, why it is that one who has taken so much delight in gospel priveleges should so much of her time be deprived of them as it respecth those privaleges in which my soul delights. My life has been a checkuered sean sometimes rejoicing that God has cast my lot here and at another mourning that I am no better situated and that I must spend my Sabbath at home when many can go up to the house of God to keep holy day and unite their hearts and voices together in singing praises to him who gave his back to the smiters and withheld not his face from spitting to purchase those blessings for us for he went through till he could say it is finished. Oh what heart so hard that it could not rejoice at those blessed words it is finished the salvation of man is completed and all are invited to come. Oh what cause have I for grattitude that the way has been made open to me and as I hope I have been enabled to partake of the fatness of Christs house but still murmur that I live without the Preached word. Great God give thy handmaid true resignation to thy will but do not forgit thy heritage here and quickly may this dry and barren wilderness become a fruitful field as it were, the garden of the Lord and bud and blossom as the rose that thy people may no longer hang their harps upon the willows but may they arise in thy strength and go forth to meet the blessed Jesus while he is yet in the way and while he is inviting sinners to come to him and may thy children lay hold of thy promises and plead them in all their length and breadth and with that faith that takes no denial. Oh that thou woulds put such a heart into thy people here and unite the hearts of all together in one bundle of love.

MARCH 13th, 1831.

I find that in the are blessings still and that thou art found of those that seek the and though we are destitute of the preached word yet we have the privelege of meeting together and mingleing our voices together in confessing our sins before the and pleading for thy blessing on a lost and fallen world, and oh when will that blessed day dawn on this little Church that we may enjoy the blessing of a preached Gosple. Oh is not the time now nigh at hand and not far off when Sinners in this place might be constrained to listen to the voice of wisdom and forsake their vanity and turn to God.

11.

MAY 1st, 1831.

I am astonished when I look over and see that more than a Month has passed away without my marking down any of thy dealings with me, for I must acknowledge it has been a season of more than common interest to me in that thou hast been pleased to look upon us in our low estate and hast raised us to a more than common engagedness in thy service. Oh what a God of mercy have we sinners of the human family to trust in, and oh that thou wouldst Give thy handmaid true resignation to thy dealings to us as a people and trust the and march forforward in every path of duty looking unto Jesus who is the author and finisher of all things.

12.

This is the first day of a new year and how does it become me a candidate who is bound to the eternal world to consider how I spent the last year and wherein I have come short of my duty to God to try and reform this year on which I have now entered. How different has been my circumstances this day to what the commencement of the last was. This day we were all able to go to the house of God and the first of the Last were all constrained to stay at home by reason of sickness. And when I take a view of thy goodness to me an individual I have reason to bles and prais thy great name for thy loving kindness manifested to such a poluted worm of the dust and as thou wast pleased to visit us in a time when destitute of the word preached and as thou hast been pleased to grant to us at the presant this so great a blessing. Oh God, to the I look and to the, cause all of thy Children to look and may this little Church arise as the heart of one man. Lord God to the I look that thou wouldst arouse thy Children and bring them into a state of activity that those who suround thy Children may by their Good works be led to glorify thee our Father who art in heaven and oh that this afternoons discourse may be set home to every impenitent sinner this day so that it may be a means in thy hand of bringing them all to Christ.

It is now more than twenty three years since I in a publick manner came out and seperated myself from the world declareing myself to be for God and none other and now when I look back and take a view and see how little I have done to honor that God to who I am indebted for every bles that my life has been crowned with, I might forever hide my face in the dust but as I know that to go back is certain death I will with trembling steps march forward and this day would I anew consecrate myself to thee in humble relyance on divine aid as I do know that the most of my time is spent and that I have honered him no more before a dying world. I do now desire to consecrate myself anew to God and do desire to be his and only his forever and, oh thou Almighty God, who knowest the secrets of all hearts help this thy unworthy dust to live and while she lives to honor her christian profession by a well ordered life and Godly conversasion and help me so to live that my life may be such that I may leave a savour of thy name when I quit the shores of time and enter the world of spirits to join in celebrating the praises of God and the Lamb through Eternity. Oh blessed thought, one that has done so little to honor my maker, one that so little honored my redeemer Can I have so blessed a hope yes methinks I have a hope that is like an anchor to the soul both sure and stedfast entering to that within the vale whither the forerunner is entered. May I live as one who posseses so glorious a hope and when this mortal shall be called to put on imortality Death may be swallowed up and I with joy enter on an untried state. Oh thou blessed Redeemer, thou Lamb of God, how doest thou condesend to take guilty rebbles to thy self and permit them to be heirs with the in thy Kingdom.

AUGUST 28th, 1832.

O Lord, I am yet spared and again to set my pen to paper and it is because thy hand has been stretched out in mercy or I should now have been in an endless and miserable Eternity, for, oh God, since thou hast taught me my condition that I was in by nature and permitted me to hope in thy mercy, how have I departed from the and it is with shame that I would this night make a confession of my sins and my wanderings from thee and this night would I engrave as in brass that I do desire to return to the with all my heart never more to depart from the for thou only art lovley thou alone deservest the prais of thy people. And, oh God, may I ever give the prais and Glory that is due to thy holy name and keep my proper place at thy feet and though my name should be cast out as evil, oh let me never stray from the path of truth and duty but if I am reviled may I remember that the blessed Jesus withheld not his face from spitting and shall not I be patient under reproaches for, oh God, it will be well with me if thou reproach me not for should all earth and hell rise up against me it be well with me if thou art my friend. Oh may I come to the aright and lay my self low before the and the few remaining breaths that I have to breath let me breath them out in prayr to the and let not an idol word pass from my lips and help me to dedicate my house hold to thee in such a manner as that thou wilt except the dedication and look on them in mercy. Thou hast committed to my care two immortal Souls which must exist as longe as god exists and one of them I hope thou hast taught the bitterness of sin and he has made a dedication of himself to the, but Lord thou see'st that unless thou hold he will utterly depart from the. Oh God look upon him this night and keep him from sin keep him from the vaneties of this vain and alureing world and may a sence of his departure from the be brought to his view in cullars that he may return to the with all his heart and be a light in thy candlestick. Oh God but I confess that thou hast a perfect right to what thou wilt with thine own I leave him with thee and plead for her who is yet in the broad road to ruin walking heedlesly onwardly to Eternity. Oh God, wilt thou have compassion upon her and send thy Good spirit into her heart and show her her sins in their true cullars that she may no longer rest in sin but return and live to thy Glory and may I be so happy as to say here am I and the Children thou hast given me. Amen.

DEC. 12th, 1832.

This day, again detained from going up with thy people to keep holy day in lonely retirement at home, would I look over and count thy mercies to us as a people in that thou hast crowned us with blessings innumerable thou hast far surpassed my expectations and I am led in the language of the poet to say

Lord when I count thy mercies ore they strike me with surprise
Not all the sands that spread the shore
  To equal number rise.

For thou hast not only granted to us the preached word but thou hast succeeded the effort of thy people in this place in erecting a house in honour of thy name and when we felt ourselves little and could see no way of eskape it was then that thou didst send to our relief. In sending to this little Church a man one on whose labours thou hast been pleased to smile and one whom thou hast been pleased to make instrumental in bringing into this little vine multitudes of the lost sons and daughters of men and hast placed on them thy blessed image and hast made them pillars in the temple of our God and as I hope to go no more out forever. This is the Lord's doings and it is marvelous in our eyes.

MARCH 1st, 1833.

This is the first that I a sinful worm have attempted to pen this year, and oh when I look over thy hand dealings with this little vine I am constrained to say what hath God the great Eternal wrought for us here. Thou art going on in ways of mercy with us and now as we are about to enjoy a privelege under such circumstances as we have never before been permitted to enjoy how does it become us to humble ourselves before thee, the Almighty God, that thou mayest lift us up for now, even now, under all the seaming prospects which are before us if thou Lord withhold thy blessing the season which we contemplate will be a barren and unfruitful one to us and thy name will be dishonoured. But as thou hast never disapointed eny who put their trust in the, disapoint not I do pray thee any expectation of thy blessing upon the meeting now in contemplation and when the house that has been built for thy worship shall be dedicated to thy name and worship, oh will it please the to fill it with a cloud of thy presance.

APRIL, 1833.

Again am I permitted to put my hand to paper and to tell of thy wonders, oh Lord, to us as a people here in this place hast thou been pleased to stand by thy people and bless their attempts to erect a house of worship. Oh what grattitude do I owe to the, for thou hast been with us from the foundation to the top stone; thou art in very deed thy people's friend and I will still trust the and go forward hoping that thou who hast been with us in all our straits will now take up thine abode with thy people here and cause that here sons and daughters may be born to thee who shall shine like polished stones in thy temple here and be prepared to shine in the kingdom of immortal glory.

MAY 5th, 1833.

I am yet in the Land of the living and am permitted to tell of thy goodness and to plead with the to search me and try me for the fealings of my heart are known to thee this day, how do

I feal to mourn over the sins of thy professed children, how is thy cause in this place dishonered by such as profess to be thine in this place. Oh Lord may all in this place who profess to be thine be careful to depart from all eniquity and walk in obediance to thy commands that they may lead them who are yet blinded in sin to the saviour of Sinners. Oh let this be a day of thy power upon the impenitent in this place and may be brought to feal the truth when it is set before them and may satan yet be defeated of his pray and no longer hold the impenitent in his chain but let arrows from thy quiver fly thick this afternoon to the hearts of thy enemies and bring them to bow in submission to thy will. Thou art able and will it not please the to bind the strong man and then spoil his goods enter in, oh thou blessed spirit, this afternoon to many hearts and may the jeneral inquiry be what shall I do to be saved and may the cloud which apears to gather blackness over this place be a cloud of mercy and fill this place with thy glory.

ANCESTRY OF LIEUT. HEMAN ROWLEE

1. Henry Rowley was an early planter at Plymouth, Mass. In the first tax rating for the Plymouth Colony in 1632–33, occurs the following entries:

	£	d
Henry Rowley	00	09
Gov. Edward Winslow	02	05
Myles Standish	00	18
John Alden	01	04

In the second rating in 1633–34:

Henry Rowley	00	18
Gov. Edward Winslow	02	05
Myles Standish	00	18
John Alden	01	04

It is possible that he was one of the company that came over from Leyden to Plymouth in 1630. It has also been conjectured that he came in the Charles with Mr. Hatherly, in 1632. It is probable that he came from the vicinity of Shrewsbury, England, since the family name is common in the records there. It is near the Wales border and some traditions call the family Welch, while others call it English. It is probable that he was married when he came over, and that his children were born before that time. It has been declared that his first wife was Sarah, daughter of William Palmer, Senior, of Duxbury. The latter came over in the Fortune in 1621, and his wife, Frances, came in the Anne in 1623. In his will, dated 1637, William Palmer names "Moyses Rowley (son of Henry) whom I love," and provides for his bringing up, but does not state what relation Moses was to himself. Henry Rowley m. (2) Oct. 17, 1633, Anne, widow of Deacon Thomas Blossom, who embarked in the Speedwell at Leyden in 1620, but being obliged to return to Leyden, came over to Plymouth in 1629, where he d. previous to March, 1632–3. Henry and Anne Rowley removed to Scituate in 1634, the year he was elected freeman. Both were members of Rev. John Lothrop's church at Scituate in 1634–5, and removed with him to Barnstable in 1638. In the memorandum containing the membership of Lothrop's church occurs the following: "Goodman Rowleyes house a small plain palesade House in 1634; a new house on his lott in 1636." He was a deputy from Barnstable to the General Court in Plymouth at least once.

In 1650 Henry Rowley removed, with his step-son, Peter Blossom, to West Barnstable, and later to Falmouth. Henry Rowley d. in 1673. Inventory of the estate of "henery Rowley of Saconesset," exhibited in Court, July, 1673, on oath of Moses Rowley. "Item: a debt of twenty-nine pounds due from Jonathan Hatch upon the repurchase of a parsell of land which the said Hatch sold to said Henery Rowley with that limitation provided." Plymouth Colony Records, Vol. III, part 2, p. 93. Children:—

2 i. Moses, b._____; m. Elizabeth Fuller.
ii. Joseph, b._____; living at Barnstable, 1655; said to have gone to Barbadoes.
iii. Sarah, b._____; m. April 11, 1646, Jonathan Hatch, of Barnstable and Falmouth, b. about 1626, d. Dec., 1710, aged about 84 years. He settled in Succonnessett (Falmouth) in 1661.

2. Moses Rowley (Henry[1]), b. probably before 1630 in England; d. 1705, at (East) Haddam, Conn.; m. April 22, 1652, at Barnstable, Elizabeth, dau. of Capt. Matthew Fuller. She survived her husband and d. in (East) Haddam or Colchester after 1714. The earliest mention of Moses Rowley is found in the will of William Palmer, the elder, of Duxbury, dated Nov. 7, 1637, which is recorded in Vol. I, fol. 28, of Plymouth Colony Wills and Inventories, and has been printed. (See Mayflower Descendant for July 1900, p. 147). "I would have myne Execut's as in conscience they are pswaded out of the remaynder of my estate deale wth Rebecca my Grandchild and Moyses Rowly whom I love but not so as to put it into their father or mother's hands but preserve it for them till they come to years of discretion . . . . also I would have yeong Rowly to be placed wth mr. Partridge that hee might be brought up in the feare of God, and to that end if his father suffer it I give mr. Partridge five pounds." March 7, 1653–4, Moses Rowley was allowed a cow out of the estate of William Palmer, deceased, of Plymouth (Records of Plymouth Colony, Vol. III, p. 45.)

In 1657 he took the freeman's oath at Barnstable. In 1681

he was a constable, and was occupying lands at Succonessett (Falmouth). He was a deputy to the General Court in 1692, under the new charter according to Savage, and yet he must at that time have been thinking of removal, for according to East Haddam Deeds, Vol. I, p. 554, Moses Rowley, Senior, "late of Saquanesset, now of Machimodus in Haddam," bought 60 acres of land of Jonathan Gilbert, originally laid out to John Henderson of Haddam, deceased. The date of this deed is May 3, 1692, and there is another deed dated October 4, 1693, which names Moses Rowley. An agreement of the heirs of James Bates of Haddam, dated Feb. 1691–2, refers to "mony in moses rowlyes and John Ackley's hands, to be reserved to pay debts with." These records indicate that he removed to Haddam as early as 1691. That his wife Elizabeth disapproved of the removal is clear, for in 1714 she made a deed in which she declared that she had been left without support and dependent upon the bounty of her sons, John Fuller and Moses Rowley, and conveyed to them all her right of dower to lands in Falmouth, which her husband had sold to the Parkers without her consent. His will is dated Aug. 16, 1704, on file at Hartford, Conn., and reads as follows:

"The Last Will and Testament of Moses Rowley Sen of east Haddam in the county of Hartford in Colleny of Connecticut in new Ingland Wittneseth."

"In the name of god. Amen. Whereas I Moses Rowlee being weak of body but through gods good hand npon me at this present writing in perfect memory and understanding doe make and ordain this as my last will and testament."

"Imprimus: I doe give and bequeath my soul unto god in the name, meritts and mediation of the lord Jesus Christ in whose Righteousness I hope to be accepted with the father."

"And my body to Christian burial as my executors shall see meet, hoping for a glorious Resurrection at the last and great day."

"As for the portion of this worlds goods that god (hath) given and continued to me my will is that my Just Debts being paid the Remainder to be disposed of as followeth: as for the Rest of my children I have done what hath been with me and now I have not expectation of being any more capable to help myself wherefore I do give and bequeath my land unto my sonn Moses Rowlee that is to say my half of the lott I now live upon (the other half I have given all Ready to my son Matthew) to be equally divided between my sons Moses and Matthew. I also give unto my son Moses that twenty five pound right that I formerly gave to Matthew, which my son Matthew hath lovingly Relinquished again to me."

"I give and bequeath to my daughter Mehitabell fuller all my moveables both flock and household stuff whether without door or within."

"I give and bequeath half my young mare unto my son Matthew. My will further is and it is upon the account of not only what my sons Moses Rowlee and John ffuller hath done for me and been kind to me but especially their willingness to take the care of me and my wife during our naturall lives and I doe expect that care and kindness of them that is meet and needfull both to myself and my wife and I therefore have done what I have done to oblidge them what I cane and doe Repose my trust next under god upon these my two sons Moses Rowlee and John ffuller for what I shall and for what my wife shall stand in need of between this and the grave."

"and I doe further give to my son Moses Rowlee my meadow lot and further be it known that my son Moses is to pay my just debts and moreover my will is that all the above legacies given to my children is to them and their heirs, executors, administrators and assigns forever, furthermore I doe nominate, appoint and ordain my loving sons Moses Rowlee and John ffuller executors of this my last will & testament as witness my hand & seale."

Elizabeth (Rowley) Fuller was second child of Matthew and grand-daughter of John and Margaret (Balls) Fuller of Redenhall, Norfolk, Eng. Matthew Fuller was baptized Oct. 16, 1603. He did not come in the Mayflower but remained with friends in England until about 1640, when he came over to Plymouth. At this time he was married and a parent. Of his early history, little is known, but he was doubtless acquiring the knowledge of surgery and military affairs which he afterward put to such good use. In April, 1642, ten acres of land were granted him in Plymouth, and in the same year he was juryman and propounded freeman of the Colony, but was not sworn .and admitted until June 7, 1653. In 1643, he was appointed sergeant in the military company of the Colony, of which Miles Standish was captain. About 1650, he removed to Barnstable. In 1653, he represented that town in the Colony Court, and was already lieutenant of the militia there. June 20, 1654, he was appointed lieutenant under Capt. Standish of the Company of fifty men, the quota of Plymouth Colony, in the proposed expedition against the Dutch at Manhattan. All preparations had been made, when news of peace arrived and further service became unnecessary. Oct. 2, 1658, he was elected one of the Council of War, and in 1671 its chairman, and one of the magistrates of the Colony, and in the same year lieutenant of the forces to be sent against the Saconet Indians. Dec. 17, 1673, he was appointed Surgeon-General of the Colony troops, and also of those of Massachusetts, if that Colony approved. For this service he was allowed 4 shillings a day. In King Phillip's War he was captain of the Plymouth forces. In the Quaker controversy, Capt. Fuller took a noble stand in favor of religious toleration. He lived near neighbor to some of the most prominent of the Quakers, and was connected by marriage alliances with some who felt the severity of the laws passed against the sect. He went so far as to censure this law in strong terms in public. For this he was fined by the magistrates. Though indiscreet in speech, the court continued to confer offices of trust and honor upon him,—a most unusual course which shows that his honor and bravery were never doubted. In his public and private life he was a man of sound judgment, of good understanding, faithful in performance of duty, liberal in politics, tolerant in religion. Captain Fuller was also the first regular physician who settled in Barnstable. His homestead was in the northwest corner of Barnstable, at Scroton Neck. He also possessed large tracts in Falmouth and Middleboro, granted for the eminent services he had rendered the Colony. His will was dated July 20, 1678, and was proved Oct. 30th following. His estate was appraised at £667,04,06, a very large amount for those times. Among the items is the following: "Pearls, precious stones, and diamonds, at a guess, £200."

Children born at Barnstable:—

i. Mary, b. March 20, 1653; m. Jan. 7, 1675, to John Weeks, of Falmouth.
ii. Moses, b. Nov. 10, 1654; m. Mary Fletcher (?).
iii. _____, b._____; "the dafter of Moses Rowley Senior died the 15 day of November bured 16 Day November 1682." Falmouth records.
3 iv. Shubael, b. Jan. 11, 1660; m. Catherine Crippen.
v. Mehitabel, b. Jan. 11, 1660; m. John Fuller.
vi. Sarah, b. Sept. 16, 1662; was living in 1700 at East Haddam, but perhaps died before her father.

viii. John, b. Oct. 22, 1667.
ix. Matthew, b. _____; m. Joanna _____.

3. Shubael Rowley (Moses[2], Henry[1]), b. Jan. 11, 1660, in Barnstable; d. March 28, 1714, at Colchester, Conn.; m. Catherine, dau. of Thomas Crippen, of Falmouth and East Haddam; she d. probably at Colchester, after 1719, but the date is not found. She conveyed all her right in her husband's estate to her son-in-law, Edward Fuller, on the promise of support during her life. Shubael Rowley was in (East) Haddam as early as 1693, for on Oct. 4 of that year he conveyed land there to "his father Moses Rowley, cordwainer, of Sockanesset in the County of Barnstable and Colony of Plymouth." On Nov. 19, 1700, he sold his Haddam lands to Timothy Fuller, of Machimoodus, and removed to Colchester. The names of his children are from the settlement of his estate (Hartford Probate Rec., Vol. VIII, p. 224). The older children were born at Falmouth, the younger probably at (East) Haddam. Children:—

i. Isaac, b. about 1683; m. Hannah Harris.
4 ii. Shubael, b. about 1686; m. Hannah Brown.
iii. Thomas, b. about 1690; m. Mary Cornwall.
iv. Matthew, b. about 1692; m. _____.
v. Elizabeth, b. about 1695; m. Edward Fuller.
vi. Elnathan, b. about 1697; m. Abigail Cone.
vii. Mary, b. about 1700; m. Feb. 25, 1720, Thomas Lewis, of Colchester.
viii. Jabez, b. about 1702; m. Tabitha Harris.

4. Shubel Rowley (Shubael[3], Moses[2], Henry[1]), b. about 1686, in Falmouth or Barnstable; m. May 8, 1709, to Hannah Brown of Colchester, probably daughter of John Brown, who died in 1707 at Colchester, leaving wife and six children. Hannah was born in 1688. In 1734 they were living in North Castle, Westchester County, N. Y.

The records of the town of North Castle reveal the following:

April 6, 1736, Shubel Rowley was elected Assessor, or as it is recorded (Sessor), and Highway Master.

April 5, 1737, Shubel Rowley was elected Fence Viewer and Appraiser (Prisor) of damages for old Poundridge.

April 4, 1738, Shubel Rowley was elected Fence Viewer and Appraiser of damages for old Poundridge.

April 3, 1739, Shubel Rowley was elected Appraiser of damages and Fence Viewer for old Poundridge.

Shubel Rowley used the spelling for his Christian name as here given, and his descendants for three generations apparently did also. Whether his father also used that spelling is uncertain since clerks and compilers have in many cases substituted the spelling Shubael. Whether he and his father used the spelling for the family name as here given (Rowley) or used the spelling Rowlee as did his grandfather in his will and his sons and later generations, must for the present be left unsettled.

Their first seven children are recorded at Colchester. It seems probable that they also had a son Shubel, b. after they left Colchester.

i. Mercy, b. April 30, 1710.
ii. Hannah, b. March 10, 1712.
iii. Elizabeth, b. Oct. 3, 1714.
iv. A daughter, b. Dec. 12, 1716; d. Jan. 10, 1717.
v. Experience, b. Aug. 8, 1718.
5. vi. Matthew, b. Oct. 8, 1720; m. _____.
vii. Patience, b. Aug. 16, 1723.
viii. Shubel, b. about 1625; m. Joanna, and had sons Jonathan and Shubel, and probably others. (For Family Record, see p. —.)

5. Matthew Rowlee, b. Aug. 8, 1720, at Colchester, Conn.; m.-------. He was living in the vicinity of Carmel between 1750 and 1760, for Matthew and Shubel Rowlee signed a call in 1755–6, for Mr. Ebenezer Knibloe as pastor, from the Western Society of Philippi (Carmel).

The Register of Baptisms in the West. Soc. of Philips Patent has: Shubel Rowlee and his spouse had their daughter Patience baptised April 11, 1756. Matthew Rowlee and his spouse had their son Elijah baptised Jan 2, 1757.

Marriage Records of Amenia by Rev. Ebenezer Knibloe (N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Record, XXXIII, 47): Nathaniel Rowlee m. Kezia Davis, Sept. 11, 1765. Abel Rowlee m. Susannah Connet, April 15, 1773.

Military Records from Bureau of Pensions, Washington: Daniel Rowlee enlisted at Fredericksburg three successive years, 1776, 1777, and 1778. His residence is given at Fredericksburg, Dutchess Co. His date of birth is April 20, 1759. He served the last year in Capt. David Hecock's Co.

Elijah Rowlee also enlisted from Pawling in Capt. Hecock's Coompany.

The following connection between the Orange County and Dutchess County families seems most likely: Shubel of the two places is identical. Heman of Orange County is son of Matthew of Dutchess County. Nathaniel, Abel, Daniel and Elijah may also have been sons of Matthew.

That Heman Rowlee and Shubel Rowlee were of close kinship appears evident from the fact that the names of both appear in the same family records, namely Heman's. They might have been brothers but from the dates, and the text of their wills, it seems more probable that Shubel was Heman's uncle.

The period of migration, i. e., the last half of the eighteenth century, scattered families so that, especially in the pioneer districts, the evidence of genetic connection is scant or lost altogether.

The family name is spelled differently from the commonly accepted English form. The spelling "Rowlee" is used by the first Moses in signing his will, and his son Matthew signed in the same form, as a witness. During the eighteenth century, the spelling "Rowlee" was used by a considerable number of families, some of whom afterward returned to the original "ley." Heman's children and grandchildren were always insistent that "Rowlee" was right. One of the former's grandsons, Charles S. Rowley, wrote as follows in a letter to his aunt, dated Nov. 21, 1854: "You will observe that I spell our surname a little different from the old way. After I grew up, I saw some one write it in this way and it took my fancy and I have written it so since some ten or fifteen years." The children of Elijah Rowlee (21) also have adopted the spelling Rowley.

It seems, therefore, probable that the spelling "Rowlee" has been used by some of his descendants continuously since the time of Moses, son of Henry the Colonist. It also appears that officials, ministers, justices and clerks, most often used the English spelling "Rowley," although the persons themselves persisted in writing the name "Rowlee."

OTHER ROWLEE FAMILIES OF ORANGE COUNTY

There were other Rowlees or Rowleys contemporaneous with Heman in Orange County.

Shubel Rowlee. He and his wife, Joanna, mortgaged to David Johnson, of New York City, for £72, 106½ acres of land in the precinct of Goshen, May 22, 1775. The land was purchased of the said David Johnson on May 22, 1775. This mortgage was paid and discharged in 1786. (Orange County Clerk's Office.)

Shubel Rowlee. His will dated May 21, 1795, and probated Sept. 21, 1799, alludes to himself as "weak in body," gives to his wife Joanna, and his son Jonathan, as heirs, his farm in the town of Warwick, Orange County. He makes his son Jonathan and Frances Armstrong executors. (Surrogate's Office, Orange County.)

Jonathan Rowlee. He is recorded in the family records of Heman Rowlee as follows: "Jonathan's son, Shubell Arnold, b. June 10, 1792." (Family records of Heman Rowlee.)

Amy Rowlee. (Possibly wife of Jonathan) Daughter of Caleb Smith, of Warwick. Caleb Smith d. 1818. Lydia Rowlee (dau. of Heman) witness to Caleb Smith's will in 1818. (Private records of J. C. Coleman.)

Harris Rowlee and wife ------, had a son Reuben Milford, bap. Aug. 6, 1825; son Lorenzo, bap. Aug. 6, 1825. (Church Records, Orange County.)

William Rowley and his wife, Margaret Smith, had a son William Smith, b. Jan. 24, 1776; bap. March 23, 1781. (Church Records, Orange County.)

Constant Rowlee. He was witness to the will of Robert Finn, April 25, 1780. (Private records of J. C. Coleman.)

In presence of Jonathan Thompson, Isaac Allison and Isaac Smith.

SHUBELL ROWLEE.

Shubel Rowlee mentions only his widow and son Jonathan in his will, but there are reasons for believing that he had at least another son,—Shubel Rowlee of Wells, Pa. The latter's father's name was Shubel, and he was born in 1765, and migrated from Orange County to Bradford County, Pa., about 1800.

Militia, serving under Col. John Hathorn. Heman Rowlee purchased land in Warwick, Orange Co., and gave a mortgage upon it, Nov. 16, 1769, to William Wickham of same precinct. In what appears to be a preliminary citation to heirs for the probate of the will of Heman Rowlee, Jr., in 1866, Joel Curtis of Brooklyn, N. Y., is mentioned. In the final printed citation of this will (see p. 19) his name does not appear, but instead the following, who are probably his children:—i. ELIJAH ROWLEE, fifth child and third son of Heman, was b. Jan. 8, 1780, at Warwick, Orange Co., N. Y. He m. about 1804, Millicent, dau. of Jonathan and Miriam (Strong) Sheppard. The church records of the Amity (Presbyterian) Church show that Elijah and Millicent Rowlee were admitted to Communion by certificate, from Scotchtown, Oct. 30, 1813, and were dismissed May 3, 1817. The Orange Co. records (Lib. K. p. 325) show that on the 17th of May, 1808, Elijah Rowlee and Millicent, his wife, and Nathan Rowlee and Doratha, his wife, of the towns of Warwick and Minisink, gave a deed of 70½ acres of land in the town of Minisink to Charles Wood, consideration $1100. They probably migrated in the summer of 1817 to Western New York, for their son, Jonathan Sheppard, was born Feb. 5, 1818, "in the town of Milo, three miles from Penn Yan." They finally settled near Monterey, town of Orange, Steuben Co., N. Y. He d. about 1864 and was bur. in Genoa Cem., De Kalb Co., Ill. "He cast his last vote for Abraham Lincoln for President." †ANCESTRY OF DOROTHY (CARR) ROWLEE. Dorothy Carr, b. Dec. 21, 1783 near Pine Island, Orange Co., N. Y., bapt. at Florida Presbyterian church, June 19, 1799, together with brothers and sisters (Dorothy, apparently the eldest) John, Hannah, Anna, Nathan, David and Samuel. She m. Nathan Rowlee about 1803. All joined the same church in 1815 and 1816, and in addition, Eleanor, who may have been a child born after 1799. She was a daughter of John and Amy (Armstrong) Carr.

John Carr, was born probably as early as 1750. He was son of William Carr deceased in 1783, who was a Scotch-Irish emigrant. John Carr was a Revolutionary soldier, and served in the Orange Co. Militia, and possibly also in the regular continental army. He had a brother Wm., Jr., who married Deboriah _____, and also lived in Orange Co. Records show that John Carr was a blacksmith. He married Amy Armstrong about 1782.

Amy (Armstrong) Carr was daughter of John Armstrong.

The facts set forth in Eager's account of the Armstrong lineage is apparently erroneous in certain particulars. The following is based upon Dr. Coleman's researches in Orange Co. and upon records collected by J. Whit. Wood and his father, of Phillipsburg, N. J., who are descendants of Mary, the youngest child of Francis Armstrong, the emigrant. Mr. Wood has in his possession the original memoranda book, kept by Francis Armstrong.

Francis Armstrong was from Ulster County, Ireland. He was no doubt a member of one of the Scotch families of the name who had migrated to Ireland. He was married to Miss Deborah Lattimore, Feb. 1, 1721. The family tradition is that she was a descendant of Bishop Lattimore. They with their first born son, William, in arms, came to America in 1723.

PresbyterianChurch, April 14, 1813 ; she on April 23, 1816. They lived in Orange County until about 1817, then migrated to Groton, N. Y., and from there in 1826, to Fulton, N. Y. He was a stone mason by trade. All but two of their children went to Fulton with them. Dorothy (Carr) Rowlee d. in 1834. Nathan m. 2d, Widow Graham, by whom he had no children. He d. Feb. 15, 1839. They left their old home Aug. 6, of that year, and turned their faces westward "to Amarach." They sailed from Londonderry Loch on the ship "Main," Sept. 11, 1723, and landed in New York "ye 10 of December following."

About 1760, Mrs. Deborah Armstrong died. In 1762 Mr. Armstrong married Mrs. Mary Ayers, widow of Rev. Enos Ayers, the first pastor of the old and honored church at Blooming Grove, Orange Co., N. Y. The second Mrs. Armstrong, before marriage was Miss Mary Thompson. It is said she was "esteemed to be remarkably pious." The will of Francis Armstrong mentions wife Martha (?). Francis Armstrong died in 1785 at the good old age of ninety. The second Mrs. Armstrong survived him twenty years. By the second marriage there were no children. He had the following :—

i. William, b. 1722.
ii. Archibald.
iii. John, b. Nov, 10, 1727.
iv. Robert.
v. Elsie.
vi. Francis.
vii. James.
viii. David.
ix. Elizabeth.
x. Mary.

John Armstrong, third child of Francis and Deborah (Lattimore) b. Nov. 10, 1727, on the Armstrong farm, near Florida, Orange Co., N. Y., m. Polly McWhorter. They settled at Sugar Loaf, Orange Co., where he died in 1797. His will mentions wife Sarah, (she was his second wife and d. in 1807), grandson John, son of James Armstrong, dec'd, Anne, wife of Anthony Vaughan ; Jane, wife of John Hall ; Sarah, wife of Gilbert Saxton ; Amy, wife of John Carr ; Martha, wife of David Owens ; Phoebe, wife of Gersham Wells.

His executors were his brother Francis Armstrong and Major Henry Bartholf, both of Warwick.

Witnesses to the will were : Robert McWhorter, James, Hannah, and David Howells.

There is a family tradition that the name Armstrong originally, was bestowed upon a Highland Chief for his great courage and physical powers of their gravestones were removed to the Mt. Pleasant Cem. about 1870.

Nathan Rowlee and Dorothy, his wife, had ten children :—

24 i. JOHN CARR, b. May 15, 1805.

body, and whose death was in this wise: In some battle or border fray, being clad in armor, he accepted the challenge of the champion of the opposite clan to single combat, he killed his antagonist. The next day a similar challenge was given by another champion, and again accepted by him—he again killed his antagonist. The next day a challenge was given by another and accepted by him. After the combat had been hotly maintained for a short time his horse was observed to turn back and come up to the ranks with his rider dead, still sitting in the saddle.

Scott knew well the character of the Armstrongs for courage and patriotism; for when the chief was about to assemble his clans for some great enterprise, he says to his summoning heralds in the "Lay of the Last Minstrel"—

"Ye need not go to Liddisdale,
For when they see the blazing bale
Elliots and Armstrongs never fail."

[* Note from page 57.]

The following lines were composed by the late ELIJAH C. ROWLEE, of Co. I, 107th Reg. N. Y. Vols., and were sent to his wife, from Atlanta, Georgia, Oct. 29th, 1864:

Lord, preserve and bless that dear one,
  Shield her with Thy holy care;
And when Thou art pleased to call her,
  I pray thee, God, unite us there.

Keep her, Father, from temptation,
  Make her life long and blest;
Holy angels ever guard her,
  Lead her gently to her rest.

Lord Jesus, in all the dearest love
  Unite her heart to mine,
According to Thy blessed law,
  That we may reign in Thine.

Let me, oh Lord, share all her sorrows,
  And all the trials of this our life;
Let me to her become a blessing
  Worthy the holy name of husband.

Love us, oh Lord, and circle o'er us
  The halo of Thy immortal Son;
And when death at last shall call us,
  In heaven, dear Lord, still make us one.

Grant, oh Father, that no temptation
  Will vows like ours e'er break or sever,
But true to Thee in all things,
  Have a portion in God's blessing, ever. Amen.

I can think, dear wife, of no better words than these to convey the feelings of my heart at this time. They are precious to me. May God answer this, our prayer for each other.
